

December 9, 2008

Comfort Motion Technologies Attends "Getting Your Product to the World" Seminar

Dr. Paul Phipps, President of Comfort Motion Technologies, and Alan Rowley, Senior Vice President Marketing of Comfort Motion Technologies, attended the "Getting Your Product to the World" seminar conducted by Barnes & Thornburg LLP. The critical issues discussed were:

- Methods of product distribution
- Protection of trade secrets
- International distribution methods
- Antitrust issues
- Trademark and domain name protection
- Covenants not to compete

Subject matter experts from Barnes & Thornburg addressed each of the above topics and answered pertinent questions. Dr Paul Phipps stated that the information CMT receives from these types of programs is invaluable to a new company like CMT. He further stated that CMT faces many of these issues as it looks to expand its presence globally.

CMT's Vehicle Seat Multi-Position Software enhances the ergonomic value and function of existing power seat applications and automates subtle changes in the seat position, redistributing the occupant's weight. This reduces the occupant's stress load and relieves the pain caused by muscle fatigue and compression. Drivers arrive at their destination feeling refreshed and alert.

Based in Anderson, Indiana, Comfort Motion Technologies' mission is "Enhancing People's Lifestyles Through Innovative Technology." Please visit our web site at www.comfortmotion.com